

Six Dukes Went A-Fishing

Traditional

$\text{♩} = 84$ p sempre

Six dukes went a-fishing Down by you sea-side. one of them spied a dead bo-dy Lain by the wa-ter - side. The p sempre

4

8

one said to the o-ther, These words I heard them say: "It's the 10

Royal Duke of Gran-tham That the tide has washed a-way." They took him up to Ports-mouth, To a place where he was known; From

12

pizz. arco pizz. arco pizz. arco pizz. arco

14

there up to Lon-don, To the place where he was born. They pizz. arco pizz. arco pizz. arco pizz. arco

Slower ♩ = 76

16 mf

took out his bowels, And stretched out his feet, And they

sul. pont.

mf

18

balmed his body With ro-ses so sweet. Six

nat. p

20

dukes stood be-fore him, Twelve raised him from the ground, Nine lords fol-lowed after him in their black mourn-ing gowns.

22

24

Black was their mourn-ing, And white were their wands, And so

26

yel-low were the flam-boys that they carried in their hands.

Slower ♩ = 69

29

He now lies be-twixt two tow-ers, He sul tasto sempre

30

now lies in cold clay, And the Royal Queen of Grantham Went—sul part. nat. sul part. nat.

32

weep-ing, weep-ing a - way.
sul part. nat.

35

Boston, Mass.
4/22/90